CHEMTACULAR!

This term, our learners have been focussing on chemistry, allowing them to get a little more hands on with a slew of exciting practical experiments! During these experiments, learners have been investigating the effect of different variables on the rate and energetics of chemical reactions; investigating chemical reactions which both heat up and cool down the environment! So, this has meant our pupils have successfully worked safely with a variety of potentially dangerous chemicals in order to enhance their practical thinking skills. We're pretty chuffed!

GRIME SCENE!

Grime's a messy subject. No doubt about it. Grime is dirty. Grime is slimy. Grime is well... grimy. But above all else? Grime is unhygienic. And so, as messy a topic it may be, one must familiarise themselves with grime to conquer it, eradicate it, and prevent it. So, from the 5th of September and onward, Mrs Clayton (our school's in-house catering connoisseur) has set up her very own 'Grime Scene' (god, I love that name) to inform her pupils of the dangers of grime.

Of course, Mrs Clayton's sessions transcended grime, also recapping on kitchen hazards and the proper use of kitchen equipment (I mean, why not). Both Sean and Josh certainly pulled their fair share of horror-stricken faces (Mrs Clayton can sure construct one hell of a 'grime scene'), but our catering pupils are all the better for having received such knowledge.
